Our LaFave guests have many of the same questions:

A NOTE ABOUT THIS GUIDE

This guide contains the same information that I recommend to friends or family when they are visiting Zion for the first time.

My Father first brought me to Zion when I was a young boy and I still remember the feeling of wonder that I had while in the canyon. For over 25 years I've spent time here doing the hikes, seeing the sights, exploring Zion's far reaches, eating at the restaurants, and experiencing all the activities in order to bring you only the best things for your Zion experience.

This guide serves as a complete Zion vacation planner for LaFave guests preparing for their trip.

You don't want a list of everything to do in Zion, only the best things—so consider this guide the greatest hits. Your time is limited and extremely valuable, so I'm giving you the premier options.

I know you don't want to be presented with an exhaustive list of every hike in Zion—but rather the very best hikes for the short time you have here. Although there are 80+ hikes in Zion, we bring you only the 16 best.

All companies featured in our guide are independently selected. LaFave has no compensation agreements with any companies recommended in this guide. If you purchase anything through these companies we do not receive commissions. We do this to remain independent so that we can provide you unbiased opinions of only the best options.

The recommendations presented are personal favorites. These are the hikes that we choose. These are the places we eat. These are the activities we enjoy.

I hope this guide gives you a glimpse of the magic of this special place.

I'll see you on the trail.

ZION NATIONAL PARK

INSIDERS GUIDE

No matter
the motivation,
we can all agree Zion is a special place.

We all come to Zion and the American West for different reasons. Some come for the freedom of the open wilderness, others to view unsurpassed beauty; some come to reconnect with family and friends; while others simply come to recharge.

Zion Canyon is unquestionably one of the most beautiful red rock canyons in the world (many would argue it is the standard by which all other desert canyons are measured).

Millions come to Zion each year to be renewed and to gaze in wonder at the beauty of these canyon walls and majestic mountains.

Zion's importance, against the backdrop of our busy, noisy, often violent world, is to remind us that we can in fact make other choices: we can align ourselves with that which is slower, more peaceful, closer to nature, and our own true selves. The simple beauty that can be found here affirms that less is more.

"It's not what you look at that matters, it's what you see." - Henry David Thoreau

If you want a break from Zion for a day, please see our Greater Area Attractions section (page 88). Here we list 10 amazing activities to do within a 1-hour drive from LaFave in Springdale.

6 STEPS TO A GREAT EXPERIENCE AT ZION

DAY 1

1 Get an early start. Yes, we know you're on vacation, but starting early helps beat the crowds and the heat.

2 Go to the Zion Canyon Visitor Center area. Take a peek inside to gather current park info and trail conditions.

3 Board the free shuttle tram up the canyon. If you are hiking, then take the designated stop for whatever hike you've selected. If you are just sight-seeing, then get acquainted with the canyon beforehand by reading our guide to Zion Canyon on pages 70-71. There is also a free audio narration on the shuttle.

4 Go hike — after all, that is what Zion is most famous for! There are numerous hikes to choose from in Zion Canyon. Please see our hiking guide on page 45.

If you want an easy hike, then do the paved 1-mile Riverside Walk — it starts at stop #9 (The Temple of Sinawava). If you are hiking the Narrows, this is also your stop.

If you want to hike something challenging, then get off at the Grotto (stop #6) and hike either Angel's Landing or the West Rim trail (bottom up route). If you want a moderate hike, do the Upper Emerald Pool trail hike via Kayenta Trail (also stop #6 The Grotto).

5 After your hike, consider visiting the shops and galleries in Springdale (see page 97).

6 You've worked up an appetite — go grab some food in town. See our restaurant guide (pg. 99) for our recommendations.

DAY 2

See our hiking guide on page 45 and find another spectacular hike to enjoy.

In the late afternoon or evening consider visiting the Upper East Canyon. See page 73 for more info on the East Canyon.

RYAN'S PERFECT DAY AT ZION:

8:30 AM - Catch the shuttle up the canyon.

9:15 AM - Arrive at the Temple of Sinawava (last stop #9).

9:30 AM - Leave to hike the world-famous Zion Narrows. I don't stop until I reach Big Springs 5 miles up the canyon (Big Springs is as far as you can go without a permit). I never get tired of the Narrows, no matter how many times I've done it. Pro tip: after a couple of miles up the canyon, the crowds will thin out.

4:30 PM - Arrive back at the Temple of Sinawava; shuttle down the canyon.

5:15 PM - Arrive back at the visitor center.

7:00 PM - Eat a big dinner at the Bit N' Spur or Wild Thyme. After dinner, stop by the Bumbleberry Ice Cream Shop & Bakery to sample their delicious hand-dipped ice cream treats.

9:00 PM - Go back into the park to do some star-gazing along the Pa'rus trail.

Zion National Park is located in the southwestern United States, near Springdale, Utah. Zion encompasses some of the most scenic canyon country in the world. The park is characterized by a maze of deep sandstone canyons, tall mountains, clear rivers, colorful mesas, narrow slot canyons, prominent monoliths, and high plateaus covered with pine forests. Zion also features one of the largest freestanding arches in the world: Kolob Arch spanning 310 feet.

Less known about Zion: with an abundance of water and high canyon walls to shield the sun, the park contains many seeps, springs, and waterfalls supporting verdant and colorful hanging gardens. Visitors are often surprised at the relative lushness found here.

Zion National Park contains evidence of at least 8,000 years of human occupation by Archaic, Ancestral Puebloans, Southern Paiutes, and later the pioneer settlers who arrived in the 1860's.

In the 1860's, pioneer members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons), named the area Zion, a Hebrew word interpreted to mean a place of safety or refuge.

With an elevation change of over 5,000 feet, Zion's unique topography leads to a diversity of habitats and species. Desert, riparian (river bank), pinyon-juniper, and conifer woodland life zones are found here. Zion is located at the junction of 3 major regions: Mojave Desert, Great Basin, and Colorado Plateau, which contribute to the unusual diversity of plant and animals species of Zion.

The park's ecosystems support over 1,020 native plant species, including more flowers than anywhere else in Utah. 44 of the plant species are endemic to Zion.

Zion is home to 78 species of mammals, 291 species of birds, 37 species of reptiles and amphibians, and 8 species of fish.

THE EAST TEMPLE

4 MAJOR ZONES OF ZION NATIONAL PARK

★★★★ Kolob Canyons

ZONE

This zone is 45 minutes from Springdale. Very scenic and few visitors.

HIGHLIGHTS: Timber Creek Overlook trail (1 mile), the Taylor Creek Trail (5 miles), and the 14-mile Kolob Arch Trail — at 310 feet, it's the second largest arch in the world.

★★★★ Kolob Terrace Road

Although rarely visited compared to the main Zion Canyon, this section of the park is extremely beautiful and has few crowds. If you want an otherworldly scenic drive, then head up this road in the late evening and be prepared to get amazed.

HIGHLIGHTS: The Kolob Terrace Road zone is how you access many great hikes in Zion such as the Subway, the West Rim Trail (top-down route), and Northgate Peaks Trail.

★★★★★ Zion Canyon

Zion Canyon is the zone that most people are coming to see. The main Zion Canyon holds most of the famous sites. This narrow, deep canyon is the centerpiece of the Park. This zone is so busy that for 9 months of the year you must take the free shuttle to access Zion Canyon.

HIGHLIGHTS: The Narrows, Angels Landing, Emerald Pools, The Great White Throne, Court of the Patriarchs, etc.

★★★★★ Upper East Canyon

This section of the park is accessed through the Zion-Mt Carmel Highway with its famous 1.1 mile tunnel built by the C.C.C. in 1930. This zone of the park is underrated—it contains some of the most scenic sandstone peaks and canyons found anywhere on earth. We highly recommend visiting the East Canyon—you won't be disappointed. This zone is much less crowded than Zion Canyon.

HIGHLIGHTS: The Canyon Overlook Trail, Many Pools Trail, the Checkerboard Mesa, and numerous scenic side canyons. This zone has the best bighorn sheep viewing.

WHAT MAKES ZION SO SPECIAL?

Water is what makes Zion unique

People come to Zion to view the awe-inspiring desert canyons and towering sandstone monoliths — but what really makes Zion unique is the abundance of water. Compared to the other Utah national parks which feature mostly dry, barren landscapes, Zion features water everywhere you turn.

The park's ecosystems support more than 1,000 native plant species, including more flowers than anywhere else in Utah. Add this oasis greenery to the deep canyons and dramatic mountain peaks of Zion, and it's a mix that millions of people cannot resist year after year.

It is this uncanny alignment of stone and water that has captured the popular imagination. There is simply no other place like it on earth.

In many Native American languages there is no word for 'nature' as something distinct from humanity.

BIG SPRINGS

THE VIRGIN RIVER

The Virgin River and its tributaries run through Zion National Park. This river is the primary erosion agent that has sculpted Zion for over 13 million years.

THE VIRGIN RIVER

In 2009, the upper section of the Virgin River and its tributaries were given the rare designation of a Wild and Scenic River.

The North Fork of the Virgin River begins its journey north of Zion Canyon at Cascade Falls, 9,000 feet above sea level. Then the river runs through the park and empties into Lake Mead, 1,200 feet above sea level. As the water drains below the Hoover Dam, the Colorado River continues its journey to the Gulf of California.

The North Fork of the Virgin River drops 7,800 feet in the 160 miles it travels. In the park, the river drops an average of 70 feet every mile. In comparison, the Mississippi River drops about one inch every mile. Although small, the dramatic elevation drop and constant down-cutting force of the water continues to carve out the deep canyons of the park.

The Virgin River usually runs low with an average volume of 100 cubic feet per second. However in times of great rain, it can flood and carry vast amounts of sediment. On average the river transports one million tons of sediment a year. Most of this sediment transfer occurs during floods when the river can temporarily swell to a flow of thousands of cubic feet per second. These floods can carry large boulders and rip out trees from the river banks.

INSIDER TIPS FOR PLANNING YOUR ZION TRIP

THE SHUTTLE SYSTEMS

Zion National Park & Springdale

Instead of driving to Zion Canyon, where there is limited parking, leave your car parked for free at LaFave. Take the free town shuttle that leaves directly from in front of LaFave and it will drop you off at the park entrance.

Then board the separate park shuttle at the visitor center. Take the shuttle up Zion Canyon and get off at the 9 stops to explore the wonders of Zion. The final shuttle stop ends at the Temple of Sinawava (where the Riverside Walk and the Zion Narrows begin).

For more info on the shuttle system, please see page 42.

PARKING

Zion National Park & Springdale

We recommend taking the free town shuttle directly from LaFave in Springdale to avoid trying to find parking in Zion. The town shuttle is a convenient way to get around Springdale instead of driving.

We have a Springdale town shuttle stop immediately in front of the LaFave property to easily get around town and into the park. There is parking to be found in Springdale, but it can be crowded and expensive during the busy season (but not nearly as bad as trying to find parking in Zion National Park).

WHERE TO EAT

in Springdale

Where to eat: we have 5 great restaurants within walking distance of LaFave. We would recommend all of these 5 restaurants. See page 99 for LaFave's full restaurant guide and recommendations.

Because each of the rental units at LaFave has beautiful full kitchens plus an outdoor grill, cooking at LaFave is also a great option. We have 3 grocery stores in town. We recommend Sol Foods Supermarket to purchase groceries (located just 0.3 miles up the road).

INSIDER TIPS FOR PLANNING YOUR ZION TRIP

AVOIDING CROWDS

If you are going up Zion Canyon, the best advice to avoid crowds (other than coming in the early spring or winter season) is to leave early in the morning or later in the afternoon/evening. Both of these times of day also offer cooler temperatures to beat the summer heat.

If you really want to avoid crowds, then we suggest visiting two other zones of Zion that see far fewer visitors (and still offer jaw-dropping scenery): the Upper East Canyon and the Kolob Terrace Road zone. Both of these sections are about a 20-30 minute drive away in your car (the shuttle only operates in the main Zion Canyon).

NOT ALL WHO WANDER ARE LOST

ZION WILDERNESS

And our final insider tip: Have a wilderness experience on your trip to Zion!

We recommend having at least one type of wilderness experience before you leave: do a remote hike, explore a slot canyon, hike to a remote vista, or find a place to disappear (even if only for 30 minutes).

Although Zion may be crowded, there are still many places in the park to disappear and reconnect with nature.

See our hiking guide on page 45 for ideas of hikes to experience the Zion wilderness.

NAVIGATING THE ZION SHUTTLE SYSTEM

There are two free hop-on, hop-off shuttle systems: one for Zion National Park, and one for getting around town in Springdale.

The canyon views from the shuttle windows are unforgettable.

For the current shuttle bus schedules, please see the information book in the LaFave guest rooms or visit NPS.gov/Zion. As a general rule of thumb, the shuttles run at least every 5-15 minutes in the busy season starting at sunrise and going a little past dark.

20 years ago the park decided to establish a shuttle system within the main Zion Canyon section of the park. The shuttle was necessary due to the lack of parking spaces within the park. Except for winter, you must ride the bus to enter the main Zion canyon. For many visitors, the 50 minute shuttle ride to the top of the canyon is one of their favorite experiences of visiting the park.

Despite the crowds visiting each year, Zion still manages to exceed expectations. The visitors simply love the Zion experience evidenced by the fact that they come back and also tell their friends about the wonders of the park. From talking to our guests (and seeing the high reviews from the park visitors) we witness the satisfaction visitors get from experiencing this special place.

ONE MAN'S TAKE ON THE ZION CROWDS

Outside

Despite the crowds—no, because of the crowds—Zion still feels like a celebration.

Although the Mighty Five parks are too crowded, I wouldn't say they're ruined. Last summer I was in Zion on a busy weekend. With 4.5 million annual visitors, Zion is by far the most packed of the Utah parks (and was the fourth most visited U.S. national park in 2018). The horror stories about the lines and the crowds are all true.

But I had a blast.

Twenty years ago, the park made the visionary decision to shut Zion Canyon to cars. Everyone leaves their cars at the visitor center, the campgrounds, or the town of Springdale and takes a shuttle to the trail-heads for Angels Landing and the Narrows. So there are no traffic jams, no motor homes circling for a space. From the tops of the sandstone cliffs, the valley below is silent.

Better than any front-country park in the entire nation, Zion has realized Ed Abbey's dream of carlessness: "You've got to get out of the contraption and walk," he pleaded, "better yet crawl, on hands and knees, over the sandstone and through the thornbush and cactus."

At Zion, though I was rarely less than ten feet from another human, I didn't have that soul-sucking "park experience" endemic to Old Faithful in Yellowstone or the South Rim of the Grand Canyon, the feeling of inching forward on asphalt, then shuffling in a herd a few hundred yards to a vista, only to return to the confines of the car.

I never saw so many fit Americans concentrated in one place, bedecked with hydro packs and hiking poles and amphibious footwear, hustling at the crack of dawn to hike ten miles with steep exposure, risking heat stroke and hypothermia in the same day. Despite the crowds—no, because of the crowds—Zion still feels like a celebration.

LAFAVE HIKING GUIDE RATING SYSTEM

We have taken great care to present only the hikes that we think bring you the most satisfaction — with a good mix of scenic value, river and creek experiences, dramatic vistas, narrow canyons, greenery, and exposure to scenery unique to Zion.

We methodically trekked through 80+ trails in the Zion area to bring you the very best ones. If a hike made it into this LaFave hiking guide, then it's worth doing. We've left out many hikes that aren't as memorable or scenic — all hikes listed here are the cream of the crop.

There are many hikes listed by the park service that are not as satisfying as the hikes we profile in our guide. Take our advice: the hikes we list are worth doing in your limited time here.

LAFAVE HIKING GUIDE RATING SYSTEM:

3 stars: You won't be disappointed. Any hike mentioned in our guide is worth doing.

3.5 stars: A great hike. A 3 star hike on our guide is a 5 star hike anywhere else but Zion.

4 stars: Fabulous hike. You love Zion for hikes like these.

4.5 stars: You came to Zion for these special gems. This is an extraordinary hike.

5 stars: A world-class hike — it's a must-do in your lifetime.

LAFAVE HIKING GUIDE GENERAL INFO

THE HIKES IN OUR GUIDE ARE BROKEN DOWN INTO 3 MAIN CATEGORIES:

- EASY HIKES
- MODERATE HIKES
- STRENUOUS HIKES

We profile 4 easy hikes, 5 moderate ones, and 7 strenuous hikes in our guide. All are doable as long as you are in decent physical condition.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Trail conditions and openings/closings of trails frequently occur at Zion. Check nps.gov/zion or the visitor center for current info on all hikes before attempting.

If you want a complete, detailed guide of each hike, there are several good books and web sites for this information. One hiking site we recommend is Joe Braun's Zion hiking guide.

Wherever real mythology comes from, Zion has gone there and brought something back alive. People want landscapes that give them something to believe in and hope for. In Zion we see vistas to brighten our senses and to bring us nearer to the earth once more.

But above all, it is the perfection of its form and the authority of its presence that have made Zion one of those few monuments that burn into our memory.

DESCRIPTION: This hike is different than anything else in our guide because of its setting on a high plateau in a ponderosa pine forest. It is located out of the main Zion Canyon in the Kolob Terrace section of the park (about 40 minutes from LaFave in Springdale). The hike is set high above the rest of Zion sitting at 7,000 feet above sea level, which makes it cooler in the hot summer. The trail winds through majestic ponderosa pines and open meadows as well as offers sneak peeks into remote, wild canyons. The trail ends with a beautiful vista of the Northgate Peaks and the North Guardian Angel. This is a relaxed hike that is perfect for families. A suggestion on the time to do this hike: drive up in the evening and be rewarded with some of the best views in Zion with the late sun hitting the mountains on the Kolob Terrace—it looks like something out of a movie. Then do the hike in the cool of the evening and be rewarded with stunning views and the setting sun hitting the Northgate Peaks.

DESCRIPTION: Along with Angels Landing, this is the most famous hike in Zion. And yes, it is crowded in the summer. But make no mistake: it is worth it! The Narrows is the best hike you will do in Zion—and the most memorable. Hiking the Narrows is a singular experience: where else can you say that your hiking trail was the river bed? And the canyon walls rising over 1,000 feet directly overhead gives the feeling of being in a stone cathedral. You don't just see the Narrows—you feel it. Hiking the Narrows is a must-do—preferably from the top down—but if you can't swing a top-down permit, then the next best thing is to hike from the bottom up to Big Springs. Pro tip: if you hike a mile or two up the canyon the crowds will thin out. Pro tip #2: for this hike you should get a walking stick or trekking poles (and boots are also nice to have). Stop by Zion Adventure Company or Zion Guru to get outfitted.

DESCRIPTION: Very scenic hike that goes up a beautiful red and white slickrock gully. This hike is on the east side of the park. It is a great hike for families because you can make the hike long or short (it's an out-and-back hike). Lots of pools on the route are full of frogs and tadpoles. Very few people on this hike since it is out of the main Zion Canyon. A good alternative to the Emerald Pools hikes if you're looking to ditch the masses.

Pro tip: many people struggle to find the trailhead for this hike. The parking for the trailhead is on a wide pull-out on the right (there is now a restroom at the parking area). The hike begins to the west (across the road) up a little canyon. Or if you prefer: immediately descend to the east from the parking lot down the dry wash. When you reach the sandy bottom of the wash turn left (west) and go up the canyon — you will cross under the road in a tunnel. Using this method you can't miss the trailhead.

DESCRIPTION: You have heard of this hike: Angels Landing is perhaps the most famous hike in Zion. Many people come to Zion just to do this one. It is awesome, it is scenic, and it is scary. If you are severely afraid of heights, it's probably best to sit this one out. However most people are still able to do this hike because the park has placed chains to hold along the route in the most treacherous sections.

As of 2022 a permit is required to hike Angels Landing. However if you are not able to secure a permit, you can still do the hike and see most of the same stunning views by simply hiking up the same trail and stopping at Scout Lookout. Without the permit you won't be able to climb the final summit ridge up Angels Landing— but Scout Lookout is not a bad consolation prize. One advantage of the Scout Lookout hike is that it doesn't have the severe height exposure found on Angels Landing.

DESCRIPTION: This is one of the top-3 hikes in Zion. If you are looking to do a classic hike that isn't in the water e.g. The Narrows, then this is arguably the best hike in Zion. The views are beyond description and the crowds are close to non-existent (at least on the first 12 miles of the hike until you run into the Angels Landing hikers). This hike starts off casually, but then continues to build and finally climaxes with some of the most jaw-dropping views of the park of any hike. On this trail you get to see the upper sections of Zion that fewer than 1% of all visitors to the park ever get to see. I can't recommend this hike enough. If you do the top-down hike, the route is almost all downhill which makes it considerably easier (unless you have bad knees and you'll be feeling it by the end). One important note: there is a trail junction where you can choose to take Telephone Canyon—don't take it—stay on the West Rim trail (to the right) or you will miss the best views this hike has to offer.

This hike is strenuous in that you climb a lot of vertical feet fairly quickly—however the views are sublime the entire hike to take your mind off your pounding legs. As this hike is an out-and-back you can make it as long or as short as you want. The farther you go, the better the views—if you have the stamina to reach the upper plateau you get rewarded with arguably the best vista in all of Zion looking out from the West Rim. DESCRIPTION: This is the best hike in Zion. People come from all over the world to hike the Narrows from the top-down for a reason: it is a magical hike like nothing else on earth. Do the work to obtain the required permit and the logistics for this hike and you will not regret it. The advantage of doing the hike from the top-down is that you get to see the entire canyon and follow it from a tiny stream to a deep canyon cut 2,000 feet deep from the canyon rim by the end of the hike. Another advantage of going from the top-down: the park strictly limits the number of daily hikers from the top to 40 permits a day—so you get solitude in the canyon for a true wilderness experience (at least for the first 12 miles).

If this hike does not move your soul, then I don't know what in nature could. It is a sacred experience to walk through these corridors of stone cut by water over the last 6 million years. This hike is unquestionably authentic and offers the exhilaration of a true wilderness escape. It must be experienced at least once in your lifetime.

SIGHTSEEING & EXPLORING ZION CANYON

Select Zion Canyon Tour Highlights

One of the best excursions is to take the free hop-on, hop-off shuttle bus up the main Zion Canyon and enjoy the views of this world-famous canyon. The main Zion Canyon holds most of the sites that Zion is known for: the Narrows, Angels Landing, the Emerald Pools, The Great White Throne, the Court of the Patriarchs.

1. Before you board the shuttle, start by checking out the Zion Canyon Visitor Center and view the exhibits and maps of the park. There is also an excellent bookstore to peruse.

Then board the tram to go up the canyon. At stop #2 there is a little museum to check out the history and peoples of the park (Zion Human History Museum).

2. As you re-board the shuttle and enter the main Zion Canyon, get off at several stops to take in the views and let them inspire you. Note the canyon walls that rise to the rim more than 2,500 feet above.

Some of the towering monoliths that you see rise over 3,800 feet above the canyon floor! Observe the massive boulders that have come crashing down from high above over the many eons.

3. As you go further up the canyon, envision what it was like to visit this canyon hundreds or even thousands of years ago when Native Americans gathered here to hunt.

Or imagine what life was like more recently as a pioneer farmer in the 1800's, such as the Behunin family that settled here in 1863, and lived near the site of today's Zion lodge. The canyon floor was farmed all the way up until 1909 when Zion became a monument.

4. Continue on in the shuttle up past stop #6 and note Angels Landing come into view. Next up is The Great White Throne, one of the most impressive peaks in the park (and subject of many artistic works).

As you pass stop #8 at the Big Bend Viewpoint, get out and look up to the high ridge to the west. Here you can see the hikers as little dots 1,000 feet overhead working their way up the Angels Landing hike. Also, if you have keen eyes, you can see the rock climbers here, scaling the sheer vertical walls on a multi-pitch route which sometimes can take several days.

5. In 2019, a family of California Condors nested on the cliff directly below the trail up to Angels Landing and successfully hatched a chick. This was a big deal that attracted national media attention. Visitors from all over the world came to see the condors.

We had guests at LaFave that visited from all the way across the country just to see these majestic birds that sport wingspans up to 10 feet.

6. Take the shuttle to the last stop (#9) at The Temple of Sinawava. This is where the canyon begins to narrow and the paved Riverside Walk begins. It goes for 1 mile until the Zion Narrows begin.

If you have time and you are able, get out and do this Riverside Walk. It's easy, and it's extremely beautiful—the river and the canyon look majestic here. If you were to continue on and walk up the Narrows hike, eventually the canyon walls taper down to just 20-30 feet!

DRIVE #1	OUR RATING	STARTING POINT	MILEAGE	DESCRIPTION
Upper East Canyon Scenic Drive National Scenic Byway	★★★★★	STARTING POINT: Zion South Entrance	11.5 Miles (one way)	If you come during the busy season and want to do a scenic drive, then we recommend driving to the East Canyon zone of Zion. You will take the historic Zion-Mt Carmel Highway (SR-9) through the famous 1.1-mile tunnel built by the C.C.C. in 1930, the longest such tunnel in the U.S. when constructed. This road is a National Scenic Byway. There are many incredible vistas to be seen in this section of the park highlighted by the Checkerboard Mesa and numerous scenic side canyons. Also on this route is the Canyon Overlook Trail that begins immediately as you come out on the east side of the big tunnel. Take time to enjoy this scenic drive to the East Canyon zone: get out of the car, explore the many beautiful side canyons; gaze at the majestic mountain peaks, view the desert bighorn sheep that thrive in this section of the park. Do the 1-mile Canyon Overlook Trail or the Many Pools Trail for a welcome stretch of the legs—both hikes are short. Added bonus: the crowds are light here. Also, this area of the park has the best bighorn sheep viewing—we see the bighorns nearly every time we visit the East Canyon. This zone of the park is underrated—it contains some of the most scenic sandstone peaks and canyons found anywhere on earth. We highly recommend visiting the East Canyon—nobody comes away from visiting this area disappointed.

Turn left at Canyon Junction	7.5 Miles (one way)	If you are fortunate enough to visit in the winter season, you can skip the shuttle and just drive directly up the main canyon on the Zion Canyon Scenic Drive route. It is awesome to do this drive in the main canyon when you can drive your own vehicle and stop where you may. If you can get lucky enough to be here after a big rainstorm, you can see up to 25+ waterfalls that materialize from the canyon walls and fall hundreds of feet (and then disappear within a day or two). This display is mesmerizing.

The Kolob Terrace Road Scenic Drive	★★★★★	STARTING POINT: Kolob Terrace Road Turn-off in Virgin Utah	24 Miles (one way; all the way to Kolob Reservoir)	The Kolob Terrace Road accesses the upper and lower Kolob Plateau. Although rarely visited compared to the main Zion Canyon, this section of the park is extremely beautiful and showcases some of the most stunning scenery in Southern Utah. This zone of the park is a good option if you are looking to escape the crowds. A suggestion on what time of day for this drive: head up in the evening and you will be rewarded with some of the best views in Zion. The sun looks surreal hitting the mountains on the Kolob Terrace — we have seen late evening alpenglow on the mountains here that rival any views seen in the desert southwest. If you have time, drive all the way up to Kolob Reservoir, at nearly 9,000 feet in elevation. This alpine lake offers a pleasant contrast to the desert climate in Zion Canyon. The Kolob reservoir outlet is Kolob Creek, which drains into the Zion Narrows and offers hard-core canyoneering for those with the proper training and gear. The Kolob Terrace Road zone is how you access many great hikes such as the world-famous Subway, the West Rim Trail (top-down route), and Northgate Peaks Trail. The Northgate Peaks Trail is a great diversion to stop and hike while on this drive. You access this hike at the Wildcat Canyon Trailhead. The Northgate Peaks Trail is an out-and-back hike — so you may make it very short — or go the full 4 miles round trip. This hike is extremely flat and easy. The hike sits high above Zion Canyon at 7,000 feet above sea level, which makes for cooler temperatures. There are no crowds here. The Northgate Peaks trail goes through majestic ponderosa pines and open meadows as well as offering sneak peeks into remote, wild canyons. The trail ends with a beautiful vista of the Northgate Peaks. This is a relaxed hike that is perfect for families. It is a great hike to do in the cool of the evening and make it back to your car just before nightfall.

DRIVE #4	OUR RATING	STARTING POINT	MILEAGE	DESCRIPTION
Kolob Canyon Scenic Drive	★★★★★	STARTING POINT: Kolob Canyons Visitor Center	5 Miles (one way)	Take a 45-minute drive from LaFave to see the rarely-visited Kolob Canyons zone. The Kolob Canyons section of Zion National Park is located at Exit 40 on Interstate 15. This zone features some extremely dramatic vistas. There is a small visitor's center at the entrance of the canyon that has a few exhibits and features a small bookstore. A five-mile scenic drive rising 1,000 feet along the Kolob Canyons Road allows visitors to view the crimson canyons and gain access to various trails and scenic viewpoints. Here in the northwest corner of the park, narrow parallel box canyons are cut into the western edge of the Colorado Plateau, forming majestic peaks and 2,000 foot cliff walls. The scenic road offers great views of the panoramic landscape. The Kolob Canyons truly are a unique area of Zion National Park, with soaring peaks of Navajo sandstone, canyon streams and cascading falls, and over 20 miles of hiking trails. Some of the prominent hikes that begin in this section: Timber Creek Overlook trail (1 mile), Taylor Creek Trail (5 miles), and the 14-mile Kolob Arch Trail — at 310 feet, it's the second largest arch in the world.

Viewing the Sunrise and Sunset at Zion

One of the best places to watch the sun hit the Zion cliffs in the morning is right from the grounds at LaFave. Most mornings the sun will bathe the West Temple Mountain (directly above LaFave) with a warm, soothing orange glow. At sunset you can look east from LaFave and see a dramatic vivid neon orange on The Watchman Mountain.

Stargazing at Zion

The stargazing in and around Zion is awe-inspiring. Springdale has strict dark-sky city ordinances to limit light pollution to enable prime stargazing. The dark night sky, filled with thousands of stars, rises above the jagged silhouette of the cliffs to frame an unforgettable view.

Eighty percent of Americans live in an area where they cannot see the Milky Way due to the light pollution of the cities. With little to no light pollution in Zion, the Milky Way is indeed milky: you can distinctly see the Milky Way band. Some LaFave guests have commented this is the first time they've ever truly seen it.

Two recommended hikes in Zion to view the night sky: Canyon Overlook Trail and the Pa'rus Trail.

5 GREAT KID HIKES

See pages 56-57, and 60 of our Hiking Guide for full descriptions of these 5 hikes.

1. The Pa'rus Trail is flat, scenic, and the kids can stop along the way to play in the river.
2. The Riverside Walk is another great kids hike with river access.
3. The Lower Emerald Pool Trail is another easy hike option for kids. No water access — the park does not allow swimming in the Emerald Pools — but the hike is very pleasant.
4. The Many Pools Trail in the East Canyon zone of the park features abundant pools that form in the slickrock full of frogs and tadpoles (in the warmer seasons) for kids to search.
5. The Northgate Peaks Hike is a great option for families. (see picture below)

6 OTHER FUN KID ACTIVITIES

1. Wildlife Viewing. See page 80 for Zion wildlife.
2. Visit the Zion Nature Center. The Zion Nature Center, located north of South Campground, has a variety of exhibits, activities, books, and games for children and families to explore. Other options: become a Junior Ranger or attend a Ranger-led youth program. See nps.gov/zion for more information.
3. Go Play. A simple kids option to go play: visit the George Barker River Park in Springdale (2 minutes south of LaFave). Here the kids can splash in the river, play in the grassy field, catch frogs in the late evening, and enjoy a walking path over the bridge on the east side of the river. Obviously don't let the kids in the river if it is running too high or fast.
4. Tubing on the Virgin River. If your kids are older: go tubing down the Virgin River through town. Zion Outfitter rents tubes. They can give you specific info on where to get in and out and if conditions are safe.
5. Zion Rock & Gem. Take the kids to Zion Rock and Gem (it's a two minute walk south of LaFave on Highway 9). Show them the amazing fossils and cool rocks and gems native to Utah. Maybe even buy them a souvenir.
6. Horseback Riding. You may ride either in Zion (visit canyonrides.com for info) or out of the park at Jacobs Ranch (see ziontrailrides.com).

WILDLIFE VIEWING

DESERT BIGHORN SHEEP
UPPER EAST CANYON, ZION NATIONAL PARK

Zion sits at the junction of the Colorado Plateau, Great Basin, and Mojave Desert zones and thus contains a broad variety of animals. With elevations ranging from 3,700 feet to over 8,700 feet, the park encompasses 5,000 feet of elevation change in 232 square miles. With so many varying heights and resultant microclimates and habitats, it is no surprise that Zion is home to over 78 species of mammals, 291 species of birds, 37 species of reptiles and amphibians, and 8 species of fish.

Some of the animals you may encounter at Zion:

- Bighorn Sheep - if you want to see the sheep, head to the East Canyon zone
- Mule Deer - abundant all throughout the park and in Springdale
- Cougar - almost never seen—nocturnal
- California Condor - in 2019 a pair nested and raised a chick in Zion Canyon
- Wild Turkey - can often be seen in the orchards on the south end of town
- Peregrine Falcon - nest every year in Zion Canyon
- Canyon Tree Frog - these cute little guys can be found in many streams & canyons — abundant in The Subway & Many Pools hike
- Squirrels & Chipmunks - several species found throughout the park
- Desert Tortoise - rarely seen, endangered
- Lizards - collared lizard, leopard lizard, chuckwalla, whiptail, horned
- Gray Fox - can be seen mornings and evenings as they avoid the heat of the day
- Bobcat - elusive member of the cat family
- Badger - can be seen in the lower desert zone of the park
- Hummingbird - found throughout the park and in Springdale
- Ringtail - The ringtail cat (a relative of the raccoon) is abundant in Zion. However, this small omnivore is rarely seen. They seldom emerge before total darkness. Using great skill and agility, they maneuver Zion's high cliffs and balance on narrow ledges with the help of a long ringed tail.

Q. First of all: what is canyoneering?

A. Canyoneering is the exploration of a canyon from point A to point B using a range of techniques that may involve hiking, rappelling, scrambling, route finding, and swimming. Canyoneering allows you to see much more remote and secluded landscapes than you could by simply hiking. Canyoneering is the intimate exploration of a forgotten Earth. It is an exhilarating adventure and crazy-fun.

Zion National Park is considered a mecca for canyoneering with several world-famous canyons like the Subway, as well as countless obscure and remote canyons to explore in the surrounding area. The park and surrounding area offers dozens of canyons to explore, suitable for both beginners and experts. Some of the canyons here are considered world-class. Canyoneers from all over come to experience the magic of these special descents at Zion.

Q. What if I have no experience canyoneering? Can I still do it?

A. Yes. If you have limited experience, the best method is to go with a professional guide service. Perhaps the best guide service is the Zion Adventure Company* (see zionadventures.com). Simply contact this company and arrange for them to take you on a canyoneering trip. They will discuss your abilities and adventure level to tailor a canyoneering trip that is mild, medium, or wild. I recommend the Zion Adventure Company as I have personally used their guide service and found them to be knowledgeable, safe, and fun.

Although most people who visit Zion do not go canyoneering, I would recommend it. It is a way to get off the beaten path and do an adventure that will create vivid, lasting memories. And the scenery in most of these canyons is spectacular—you will witness otherworldly sights that 99% of visitors to Zion do not get the opportunity to see. Most of the slot canyons feature beautifully sculpted walls, and sometimes spectacular waterfalls.

ROCK CLIMBING

Zion is a climber's paradise. Zion National Park's 2,000-foot sandstone cliffs are world-renowned for their big wall climbs. Due to their difficulty, most routes in the park are not recommended for inexperienced climbers.

BOULDERING

There are two accessible bouldering areas in the main canyon. One is 40 yards west of the south entrance. There is a house-sized boulder that poses a variety of options and problems. The second is Drilled Pocket Boulder, located 0.5 mile north of the south entrance. It is located on the west side of the road and is a slab with an obvious south-facing crack.

Alex Honnold

Long before Alex Honnold became the subject of a 2019 Oscar award-winning documentary about his free solo efforts in Yosemite, he was scaling peaks in Zion. In 2008 in Zion Canyon, Alex awoke early one morning and without telling anyone he quietly ascended the 1,200 foot Moonlight Buttress route in just 83 minutes. But what made this climb historic was that Alex did it with no ropes or protection—just him and the rock—known in climbing circles as “free soloing.”

Everyone thought he was crazy, but over the years Alex continued to build his climbing resume with even more daring free solo ascents. But it was way back in April of 2008 in Zion that Alex first received national attention for his audacious climb of the Moonlight Buttress.

About the Moonlight Buttress Climbing Route:

Moonlight Buttress is rated 5.12c—if that doesn't mean anything to you, that's okay. Suffice it to say 5.12c is insanely hard and that most climbers (even after years of practice) cannot climb 5.12. But to do so without ropes is not even a consideration!

The Moonlight Buttress climbing route is near the Angels Landing hike and can be seen from the road just past the Big Bend stop #8. As you go by, look up because often times the route has climbers on it. But unlike Alex, almost every one of them are using ropes.

MOUNTAIN BIKING

“Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn’t do than by the ones you did do.” – Mark Twain

MOUNTAIN BIKING NEAR ZION

The mountain biking is so good in the Zion region that there is an entire mountain biking sub-culture that resides here. There are an endless number of epic trails in this region — too many to list in this guide.

Keep in mind that mountain biking is only allowed on the Pa'rus Trail within Zion National Park. You may also ride on the roads in Zion — but if biking on dirt is what makes you happy, then you will need to get your fix outside the park boundaries.

We will leave it to other guidebooks to give you all the detailed info on mountain biking in the greater Zion area. But, as a quick teaser, these 3 mountain biking trails are arguably the best trails close to Zion (see sidebar). So if you have some experience mountain biking, and you want to hit the trails for a day, then head over to Zion Cycles in Springdale to rent a mountain bike and experience the magic of a ride here.

3 OF THE BEST MOUNTAIN BIKING TRAILS NEAR ZION:

1. GOOSEBERRY MESA TRAIL SYSTEM

Perhaps one of the most well-known trail systems in Southern Utah for its world-class trails full of technical singletrack, rolling slickrock, and incredible views of Zion National Park. The trails are well-marked with signs at the junctions and spray paint markers on the slickrock to keep you on track. You'll get both the challenges and rewards of riding on the bare rock. With miles of singletrack that can be linked together on the mesa, there are options for beginner to advanced riders.

2. THE WHOLE GUACAMOLE (11 mile loop)

Advanced trail that offers a good challenge with amazing views. Guacamole has a little bit of everything for riders. Start on slickrock and move to singletrack as you venture further out on the loop. The outer loop has some very nice singletrack.

3. JEM TRAIL (13 mile trail)

If you're looking to go fast, enjoy the views, and not worry about climbing too much, while still getting a nice section of technical switchbacks in, then the JEM Trail is for you. There are a variety of beginner/intermediate to advanced options, with quick little splits along the trails for the advanced mountain biker. JEM is a classic of the area, and has been thoughtfully designed with mountain bikers in mind— plenty of flow and fun bermed corners.

CYCLING IN ZION

Q. IS RIDING BIKES ALLOWED IN ZION NATIONAL PARK?

A: YES.

Bicycling is permitted on all park roadways and on the Pa'rus Trail. All other park trails, off-trail routes, and the Zion-Mt. Carmel Tunnel are closed to bikes.

Your best option is the Pa'rus Trail (1.75 mile one-way paved trail) which starts north of the visitor center. The Pa'rus trail connects you onto the Zion Canyon Scenic Drive. You can then ride another 6 miles all the way up Zion Canyon to the Temple of Sinawava. It's one of the best ways to experience Zion Canyon and avoid the canyon shuttles. You may park your bike at one of the many bike racks in the canyon to hike a trail, or just enjoy the scenery as very few get to do—on a bike! If you get tired of biking, each shuttle has a rack for at least two bicycles.

Bikes may be rented at Zion Outfitter (located right before the park entrance on the west side of the bridge) or Zion Guru.

Looking to ditch the shuttle bus? Consider renting an e-bike*

Would you like to head up Zion Canyon in a different method than taking the shuttle? Try renting an e-bike and see the canyon with unobstructed views.

With an e-bike you may skip the park shuttle and avoid parking hassles. Enjoy a casual, stress-free day among the towering cliffs of Zion. E-bikes may be rented from the Zion Adventure Company in town. Zion Adventure Company claims: "with pedal-assist, you can bike the Zion Canyon Scenic Drive to the Temple of Sinawava in half the time it takes to ride the shuttle."

*What's an e-bike? An electric bike is simply a bike with a small electric motor to aid you in pedaling. It feels like a regular bike, only much easier. When you pedal, the motor gives you a boost—you control how much. It makes for much easier uphill climbs.

SNOW CANYON STATE PARK

Kanarraville Falls

50 minutes away from Springdale is one of the most accessible and picturesque slot canyons and waterfalls in southern Utah. The creek side trail is fairly short (3.5 miles round-trip) and lies on the easy/moderate scale—little kids will often be seen on the trail here. Be aware that Kanarraville has been “discovered” in the past 5 years and they’re now limiting access to 150 hikers per day. This is a nice little hike and falls. Worth doing.

For the more adventurous: climb the ladder above the first falls, and then hike up to the lesser-visited (but no less impressive) second falls. Permit required and $15 entry fee.

St. George is the closest semi-large city near Zion. St. George has lots of shopping, restaurants, 10+ golf courses, the arts, and several notable attractions.

Looking for a day outside out of Zion National Park? Try these local area attractions:

ST. GEORGE UTAH ATTRACTIONS

- Snow Canyon State Park – Gorgeous red rock canyon near St. George. Called by some “Zion’s little brother,” Snow Canyon is an impressive canyon that contains several desert landscapes. It has some of the best sightseeing and hiking in southern Utah on a variety of trails, including a cool petroglyphs hike. $10 entrance fee.
- Red Cliffs Desert Reserve – The Red Reef Trail is great for families wanting a short, easy hike with scenic views. Leave from the campground at the Red Cliffs Recreation Area into a narrow canyon beside a small stream. As you hike, the canyon narrows until it is just a few feet wide. You will come to a little waterfall that blocks the trail—you may climb to the right and then continue up the narrow canyon. The Red Reef trailhead is 45 minutes from Springdale. Free entry.
- Tuacahn – Catch a Broadway-style performance at the renowned Tuacahn outdoor amphitheater. For show info visit tuacahn.org. Shows play all summer and fall. It is usually sold out nightly—advance reservations recommended.
- Little Black Mountain Petroglyph Site – Technically in Arizona (just over the Utah border), this site contains some of the best-preserved petroglyphs in southern Utah. Accessible by a short nature trail. The dirt road in can be a bit bumpy. Free entry.

ST. GEORGE UTAH ATTRACTIONS (cont.)

- The St. George Temple Visitors' Center – Visit one of the original temples for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) who first settled this area in the 1860's. The temple was completed in 1877—the first in Utah. Other pioneer sites to see in the area: the St. George Tabernacle (opened 1876), the Brigham Young Winter Home, and the Jacob Hamblin House.
- The Vortex Hike – 30 minutes outside St. George is a hike that ends in a naturally shaped bowl (or Vortex) in the Navajo sandstone. It is a bit out of the way—but a nifty little hike with amazing views and a cool destination. It's rather short (just over 2 miles) but moderate in difficulty due to the terrain. See hikestgeorge.com for info. Free entry.
- Kids Activity Idea: Red Hills Desert Garden - This 5-acre garden features 5,000 water-efficient plants, a 1,150-foot stream with native and endangered fish species, a replica slot canyon and prehistoric dinosaur tracks found on site dating back 200 million years. While here, visit the Pioneer Park and St. George "narrows". These outdoor park areas are located right next to the Desert Garden and offer fun outdoor play areas to explore the natural red rock formations, including a cool little slot canyon and mini-arch. Free entry.
- Sand Hollow State Park - Experience boating, paddle boarding and scuba in a calm lake surrounded by sandy beaches and red rock cliffs. Rental gear and equipment available in Hurricane. ATV rentals also nearby. Entry fee required.
- Yant Flat Hike (aka the Candy Cliffs) - Colored sandstone formations that sport views similar to the Wave in AZ — without having to draw a permit. The rocks have the appearance of swirled hard candy; in other places the weathered sandstone looks like giant reptile scales. The trail is short, flat, and easy: 1.2 miles one-way. Once you reach the cliffs, work your way east along the rim for a half-mile until you reach a huge natural bowl area that has the best rock formations. Yant Flat has a herd of wild horses that roam here. Avoid this hike in the heat: go early or near sunset. The dirt road in is smooth and suitable for cars (4-wheel drive not required). Very sparse crowds.

SPRINGDALE UTAH

INSIDERS GUIDE

SPRINGDALE UTAH OVERVIEW

Springdale Utah serves as the gateway to Zion National Park.

Springdale has a rich history going back to 1862 as members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) settled here and forged a difficult existence out of the wilderness. Life was hard—but rewarding. Eventually outsiders came to behold the beauty of this awe-inspiring place. Zion was formed as a national monument in 1909.

Springdale has the full amenities of a resort town with numerous restaurants, brew pubs, and coffee joints — along with many shops and art galleries. It is a walking town and sports wide-open sidewalks, which encourage the visitors to stroll the town and explore.

SPRINGDALE UTAH OVERVIEW

Springdale is a city of the arts and music — with many art galleries, shops, and a large music festival each fall that draws thousands of visitors.

Springdale is the perfect base camp for your Zion trip. LaFave is located in the heart of Springdale, and sits 1 mile from the south Zion National Park entrance. LaFave features a free Zion shuttle stop directly in front of the property.

As you walk around town, gaze up at the Zion Canyon monoliths that rise 3,800 feet above the town.

LaFave Luxury Rentals, Springdale Utah.

SPRINGDALE UTAH OVERVIEW

Springdale stands out in the desert as an oasis of beauty. With the clean waters of the Virgin River flowing through the center of town, there is an abundance of water and greenery. Springdale looks like a ribbon of emerald green in contrast to the bright red walls of Zion Canyon that surround the town.

Springdale might be a small national park town, but it punches above its weight when it comes to inspiring cuisine.

Home to gastronomy more likely to be found in Chicago than in a small Utah town, Springdale hosts a wide variety of great restaurants.

Similar to our hiking guide which presents only the best hikes in Zion, our LaFave restaurant guide does the same. Rather than give an exhaustive list of ALL of the restaurants in Springdale, we are only going to present you with the best options. There will be some who disagree with our curated list — but these are the places that we actually eat at time and time again.

Springdale restaurants have been known to be “hit or miss”— here we give you all the hits (and skip the potential misses). So with the mock-pretentious air of a Michelin reviewer, we give you our unbiased opinions on where to find the best food while visiting Zion.

LAFAVE: HERITAGE OF THE LAND

On our property at LaFave, we have a well-kept pioneer stone corral that runs along our property boundary. We have preserved this piece of history as a way to honor these early settlers.

The land around Zion has a rich history. At LaFave, we are proud that our property carries a heritage of the rugged American West and pioneer spirit.

In 1862, the early pioneers of Zion carved a difficult existence out of the desert landscape with few tools and materials.

Before there was barbed wire fencing, the pioneers of Utah would construct stone corrals to contain their animals. In several of the national parks in Utah, you may still see remnants of these early stone fences.

LAFAVE NORTH
CATHEDRAL MOUNTAIN VILLA

REVIEWS

"LaFave exceeded expectations. Honest, friendly, and informative. They gave us great advice of what to see. And our villa was so amazing! Large modern rooms, very clean upon arrival, the kitchen was fully stocked, plus really nice beds."

"Best vacation rental we've ever stayed in."

"Literally the most amazing place to stay I have ever been in. Gorgeous views from every room, including the master bath. Amazingly decorated. Spotless. Every detail, from the decor to the coffee cups was matching and stylish and perfect. The beds are incredibly comfortable and I would like the person that bought the pillows and beds and sheets to send me a list of everything they bought and then come decorate my house. The hot tub and pool are great and clean and we loved sitting in the hot tub after a day of hiking. Close to everything, we walked to the grocery store and to dinner. Right across from a town shuttle stop. Good set of games for the family. Friendly and kind staff. Cute welcome snacks and drinks."

Honestly, if I could stay here forever, I would."

"LaFave really knows what they're doing. The villa and complex are new, clean and well maintained; it has every amenity we could ask for like toiletries in the bathrooms, coffee & tea in the kitchen & laundry pods. I had a few questions while there and the host responded immediately, even in the evening. There's a welcome pack of snacks and a book explaining everything to do in town and inside the park. The location was phenomenal, across the street from a gift shop and liquor store, multiple bars, coffee shops, and restaurants. The sunset over the canyon from the hot tub was beautiful."

"Super-clean rooms."

"LaFave is the perfect base camp for visiting Zion. We will for certain come again."

LAFAVE NORTH
VIRGIN RIVER VILLA

Zion, brimming with a charismatic larger-than-life vibe, can do the theater of the grand: its vistas, canyon walls, and sandstone monoliths challenge anything on this planet for its vast scale and beauty.

But Zion can also touch you in its intimacy: a small flower sprouting after a summer rain, a spring seeping out of the Navajo sandstone to bring life to the desert, or a hidden alcove containing artifacts from the early inhabitants dating 1000 years ago.

This is why Zion is so beloved — it can show us scale so vast that it's almost incomprehensible — yet on an intimate level it can move us.

WEST TEMPLE HOUSE

THE LEFT FORK OF NORTH CREEK

An aerial photograph of a desert landscape. In the background, a massive, rugged mountain with distinct horizontal rock layers rises steeply. The sky is filled with large, white and grey clouds. In the foreground, there are two resort-style buildings with dark roofs and wooden accents, situated near a road and parking areas. The terrain is a mix of reddish-brown soil and sparse green desert vegetation.
